

Justin Whitaker

Justin Whitaker is an independent scholar, writer, and teacher living in Missoula, Montana. He works at the intersection of Buddhist ethics, philosophy, journalism, and community life.

Justin earned an MA in Buddhist Studies from the University of Bristol and a PhD in Buddhist Ethics from Goldsmiths, University of London, and he now serves as Senior Correspondent for Buddhistdoor Global, a website devoted to news and feature articles about Buddhist thought and practice around the world. Much of his work has asked how Buddhist ideas can help us think more carefully about ecology, technology, justice, and everyday human flourishing.